DO AS NEAR RIGHT AS YOU CAN.

The world stretches widely before you,
A field for your muscle and brain;
And though clouds may often float o'er you,
And often come tempest and rain,
Be fearless of storms which o'ertake you—
Push forward through all like a man—
Good fortune will never forsake you
If you do as near right as you can.

Remember, the will to do rightly,
If used, will the e il confound;
Live daily by conscience, that nightly
Your sleep may be peaceful and sound.
In contests of right never waver,
Let honesty shape every plan,
And life will of paradise savor,
If you do as near right as you can.

Though foes darkest scandal may speed
And strive with their shrewdest of tact
To injure your fame, never heed,
But justly and honestly act;
And ask of the Ruler of Heaven
To save your fair name as a man,
And all that you ask will be given,
If you do as near right as you can.

A TRUE STORY.

About fifteen years ago, a party of young men had gathered in an upper room of a warehouse in a Western town.

People going by saw the lights, and heard the cheering and shouts of laughter and nodded to each other good humoredly.

"The boys are getting on well with their plans," they said; for the town was a small one, where everybody knew his neighbor, and took a kindly interest in him; and the military company which "the boys" were going to form was a matter of public pride and interest.

There were about thirty or forty of the young men. They had most of them been at school together at John's Academy, and now were clerks in the town, students of law or medicine.

There was the heartiest good feeling among them, therefore, when they met to adopt their Constitution and By-Laws.—They had been drilling all winter in private and were to appear in public for the first time on Saturday in their new uniform. It was a gorgeous uniform, chosen from patterns sent by the Eastern manufacturer. It fairly blazed in crimson and gold. They had kept it a secret from ever one, even fathers, mothers, and sweethearts, so that the grand display on Saturday would break with more effect upon the dazzled eyes of the town people.

Now, all that was before the war. The military ardor which prevailed like an epidemic in the towns did not mean patriotism or self-sacrifice, but only a little agreeable vanity, and a great deal of cordial good-fellowship, fun and kindly feeling.

Some more weighty sense of the constraint of honor, too, rested upon the young fellows, with their swords and glittering epaulets; some increased stricture of obligation to bear themselves like men gallant and chivalric in soul as well as body. Many of the wise elders of the town, therefore, lent their help to the undertaking, and Col. Storrs, a retired army officer, accepted the post of captain, and gave himself up zealously to the work.

The organization had been rather lax until to-night, when the by-laws had been definitely adopted.

"No. 9 seems to me superfluous, captain," objected Ned Moore. "The company pledges itself to attend the funerals of all members, except such as may have suffered the penalty of the law, or laid violent hands on themselves. That appears to be more melo-dramatic than necessary. There is not likely to be any suicides or murderers among us," glancing about, with a laugh, to his companions.

"The rule is customary in all such organizations," said the Colonel, rather drily.

The rule remained, therefore, in spite of Ned's jokes, which caused a great deal of laughing.

Ned was the youngest of the boys, the merriest, most genial young fellow in town. Everybody knew his frank, handsome face and curly hair. He was book-keeper in one of the iron mills, and, out of his small salary, supported his mother. But the money was a small matter, compared with the fun, and jollity, and tumultuous affection which he brought into the poor widow's life.—"The last years of my life," she used to say, "have all the warmth and brightness that were missed out of the others."

Ned ran down the step of the hall when the meeting was over, singing "Lily Dale" at the top of his voice. He had a clear tenor, which was the delight of everybody who loved music in the town.

"That's right!" said Joe Wilson, "come up to the house, Ned, the girls are at home, and we'll have a little singing. You're in voice to night."

"All right! What do you say, Charley?" For Ned and Charley Hill seldom spent an evening apart.

"Bother the girls!" muttered Charley; "they're a bore. Their rattle-debang sets my teeth on an edge. Some of the fellows are going to have an oyster supper down at Brice's, and I promised that we'd be there."

Ned hesitated. "Is Philips to be there?"

"Yes. He asked the crowd."

"Then there's sure to be liquor and squabbling. I promised mother I'd keep out of men's parties this winter, particularly where there were cards and drinking. We had better go to Wilson's."

"Oh, never mind Wilson's. Come along."

Ned laughed and nodded. "Charley has made an arrangement for me, Joe. I'll come up to-morrow evening, and sing with the girls. I'll go around and tell mother not to sit up for me, Charley, and will be after you in five minutes."

The boys went on. Nobody laughed at Ned for "running home to his mother."

Not even Philips thought him in leading strings. The lads were neither coarse or vulgar, as Mrs. Moore thought. They were manly enough to appreciate her manly boy.

She followed him to the door. "Good night, my son. God bless you!"

"Good night, little mother. I'll be at home by eleven, at least."

There could be no harm, she thought, in a party of intelligent, clear-minded boys, tired with the day's work, meeting to sharpen each other's wits over a well-cooked supper.

Nor would there have been, perhaps, if the foolish lads had not essayed, like some of their foolish elders, to try the poison which makes them feels as gods and act as beasts.

"I say, Brice, let's have champagne," cried Philips, when supper was over.—"Let's have the pop of the corks, just for to-night." Philips had been on one or two journeys to New York, and affected the reckless humors of a juvenile Anacreon.

Ned Moore rose. "I must go, Phillips. I promised to be home early."

"Not until you have tasted some of Brice's dry wine. Not asleep."

"I cannot touch liquor, you know, Philips. It makes a fool out of me. I don't want to stay and be a Pilljoy."

"You needn't touch it. Sit down! Sit down!" shouted a dozen voices.

Ned sat down. The pleasant, easy going fellow, they all knew, was no obstinate spoil sport. Presently he tasted the wine to please the others. He had been quite correct. He could not bear liquor. Philips might sip and sip all night, and be comparatively cool and sober at the end, but a single glass made a fool of Moore; the second made him a madman.

Nobody had ever known him so witty. He kept the table in a roar. The means of fun were there in abundance, and they urged him to drink more.

When Charley Hill drank he grew surly. "You've had enough," he growled. "You'd better go home, Moore, to your mother. I wish she and Clara Wilson might see you as you are. I'll call on Clara in the morning and tell her how and where I left her sweetheart."

Now, in fact, Ned cared more for his old chum, Hill, than for all the Claras in the world, but then he was in no mood to be jeered about a woman, so he faced Hill, white with drunken rage.

"You play the spy, do you? Coward!"

As I have said, the liquor made Hill surly. He was roused at once, and struck Ned full in the face. Ned was the slighter of the two, and fell heavily to the floor. He sprang up and closed with him, and again was thrown before the companions could separate them.

"He's a little fellow beside you!" cried Joe Wilson, holding Ned back, trembling and colorless. "Shame on you! Shame, Hill!"

Hill stood, dumb and sulky; but the liquor and defeat had driven Ned mad.

"Let me go! Am I to bear the blow? Let me go! I never was struck before?"

There was a dangerous gleam in his eyes which frightened the boys. Philips motioned Joe to take him out. He led him into the cool air outside.

"You shall not touch Hill, Ned. You don't know what you are doing, boy.—Why, Charley is the best friend you have in the world," wiping the white froth from his lips. "Come, let me take you home."

"I'll go home alone. Go in! I want neither help or advice." He turned off, and Joe thoughtlessly went in.

Hill had already repented. "I'll go after him and make it up," he said rising and going out.

"Its curious," said Philips, "that one or two glasses of wine should make such an idiot out of that fellow, Ned."

There was a sharp cry outside, then a dull heavy thud on the ground, and then silence.

When the men rushed out, Moore stood sober and motionless, looking down at his old friend Charley, who lay before him quiet, with the blood oozing from his head. He had been violently knocked down, and, as he fell his head struck the curb stone, inflicting a mortal wound.

I began to write this story (which, but for the change of names, is strictly true), simply because I thought it ought to be told to the thousands of boys who will read it.

But when the remembrance of the day of pain that followed, comes upon me, I feel that I must be content to set down the facts as briefly as possible.

The dead boy was taken to his own home. Where his friend who had killed him had gone, no one knew. In the confusion Moore had disappeared.

It was curious how strong the remembrance was now with every one, how close the friendship had been between the two boys. Even the mother of the dead boy placed the guilt where it belonged. "It was the wine that did it," she said; "I have no anger at Ned. He would have given his life for poor Charley."

But the police were not so lenient. There was talk of malice being evinced by his watching outside for his antagonist. Still, their search was of the feeblest, and singularly unsuccessful. "They are giving him time to escape," said people, under their breath.

It was a gray, cold day in November, the fog lying heavy in the valleys. Late in the afternoon Joe Wilson, mounted on a strong, swift horse, left the town by the by-streets and crossed the hill to the south. Just before sunset he met Ned Moore, aimlessly wandering by the side of the river.

He rode up to him, and dismounting, stood beside him.

"I thought I'd find you hereabouts on our old hunting ground. I have brought you this horse, Ned, and all the money I could raise. You had better keep to the hills for a day or two."

But he saw that Moore did not hear him, though his eyes were fixed upon his face.

"I've been waiting to hear," he said.—"Is he—is he—dead?"

Joe did not speak.

The boy turned his back on him and stood looking into the river.

"Nobody blames you, Ned," whispered Joe. "Charley himself, if he were alive ——"

"It is not Charley," said Moore, in the same dry hard tone; "he knows how much I loved him, he will forgive me. It is mother I think of—mother. It's all over with me now."

"No, no; there are plenty of chances yet. Take the money, old fellow, and the horse. You will find all fair again."

Ned went on as if he had not heard him. "Tell the boys it was the liquor. Don't let it ruin their lives as it has mine. Good bye, Joe." He held out his hand.

Joe wrung it heartily. "Good bye, Ned, God bless you! Now mount at once."

Moore shook his head, and turning away, walked to the edge of the river, drew out a pistol, and before Joe could reach him, fired and fell.

"It's all done and over," he muttered, and the next moment lay still and dead upon the pebbly beach.

And in closing I can only repeat the last words of the unfortunate young man—

"Tell the boys it was the liqtior. Don't let it ruin their lives as it has mine."

ULYSSES AS TOODLES.—Our Mrs. Toodles' administration bought the other day with $75,000 of the people's money, from a seedy and threadbare rebel "general" named Pickett, a genuine Thompson doorplate—Thompson with a p!—Jacob Thompson! She thought it would be so handy to have in the house—the White House—to serve as a "campaign document" to re-elect Grant! The success of Pickett in palming off his stuff upon the administration, has started up in every quarter of the South hosts of fellows who have doorplates to sell, as the following dispatch announces:

WASHINGTON, July 26.

Since the publication of Jacob Thompson's letter, the Treasury Department has been applied to by a number of parties South and elsewhere, offering to furnish for a pecuniary consideration other manuscript documents, representing them to be of importance. No further purchase, however, will be made.

But why not make further purchases? If it was proper, just, expedient, or necessary to purchase any rebel archives, it must be proper, just, expedient and necessary to purchase all. To stop purchasing now, after having paid out $75,000 of the people's money for Pickett's bundle, is to confess the swindle and admit that $75,000 of the people's money has been paid out for an old rusty doorplate with Thompson—Thompson with a p!—Jacob Thompson, upon it! Mrs. Toodles is evidently sick of her bargain! And Mr. Grant, like the original Toodles, no doubt says to himself, if he does not say to anybody else—"Damn Thompson!"—Rochester Union.

THE SLEEPIEST MAN IN THE WORLD.—He is a Montanian, and a typo. We have known him frequently to drop into a sound snooze while standing at his case "distributing," and with half a "take" of matter in hand. As a compositor, he usually takes a nap at the end of each sentence, (as often in the broad day as any other time,) to be aroused therefrom only by a sneeze from one of the boys, or from some other unusual sound. If not particularly hungry, or engaged in exciting conversation with the fellow opposite, he invariably sleeps between his courses, while at his meals. The other day, at noon, he started down the stairs of the office to go to his "hash," and after reaching the doorway leading to the street, he suddenly yielded to Morpheus, leaned up against the broad door jam, and enjoyed a profound nap, until some sound or jar awakened him, and, having dreamed that he had actually been to dinner and tarried longer than usual, drew forth his toothpick, and hurried up stairs again, where he nervously rubbed his hands, hastily finished picking his teeth, jerked off his coat, and went to work. All these things we have seen ourself; but his roommates and intimate brother members of the craft tell us that on divers occasions, after retiring to his room to go to bed, he would get off his hat, perhaps one boot, and while contemplating the exertion necessary to finish the job of undressing would actually set to dozing, and be found next morning still sitting in his chair, with his legs crossed, arms folded, his head inclined to one side, and snoring like a porpoise.—Helena (Montana) Herald.

FOND OF COURTING.—A man and woman were recently divorced at Hillsdale, Mich., and now the neighbors are very much interested to find that they are courting again. Probably they found courting pleasanter than being married, and their only way of getting back to that blissful exercise was through the divorce suit.

THE funny fellow of an exchange says that a friend, who worketh like an adder, estimates that not less than 8,000,025,000,000,072 flies will lose their lives by falling into molasses and things this summer.

FLY TIME.

[Fly time, which is just about now, if ever, is most feelingly described in the following, which we find floating about in our exchanges without credit. Every housekeeper, as well as every one who likes to indulge in a morning nap, will appreciate it.]

Oh, the fly! the horrible fly!
Dabbing at nose, and mouth, and eye,
Over the ceiling, over the meat,
Over all that people eat
Dabbling,
Tickling,
Crawling about,
Miserable insect, you get out!

Wading in paint on a lady's cheek,
Leaving behind a tortuous streak,
Accursed fly! From the hell below
Never came pest that plagues us so.
Dancing,
Nibbling,
Fresh from the sty,
The horrible sty where the porkers lie.

Even the dogs, with a snarl and a bound,
Snap at the insects that swarm around.
The air is blue with the oaths that try
To drown the hum of the hateful fly.

When the weary pilgrim seeks repose,
There's a hornpipe danced on the top of his nose;
There's a vigorous oath, and a slam and a slap,
And that's the end of the sleeper's nap.
Singing,
Stinking,
Why, oh, Why,
Were you created, pestilent fly?

Once I was pious, but fell from grace—
Played the knave open, coppered the ace;
Made of myself a terrible guy,
When the devil caught me out on a fly.

How strange it is that women will try
To kill with cobalt this villainous fly?
How strange it seems, when millions are slain,
To find the multitude doubled again?
Whisking,
Frisking,
Twisting your feet,
Hunting us out in quiet retreat.

If at the fly like Toby we swear,
And the angel recorder enters it there,
Give, oh, give us the welcome doubt,
That the fear of mercy will blot it out.

A RACE FOR LIFE.

One hundred years ago there lived upon the shore of Stephens river, a small stream emptying into Casco Bay, a man named Peter Joliff; an honest, upright fellow, a good neighbor and friend, but with one abominable habit, that won him many enemies, and caused much discomfort and even suffering to those around him. This fault was an almost irresistible fondness for practical joking, that would not allow him to let an opportunity pass unimproved, wherein he could gratify this special passion of his being.

There came a time, however, when the exercise of the peculiarity brought down upon him an ordeal so sharp that it cured his unfortunate propensity, to the great joy of his family and friends. The process was disagreeable, but the cure was effectual and permanent.

One day Peter had been at work a few miles from his home. After his day's labor was finished, his employer invited him to partake of the evening meal with him. This invitation Peter accepted, and then, his system fortified by a hearty supper, he commenced his journey homeward.

The path which Peter trod that night would lead one to-day through cultivated fields and by many pleasant farm houses, but then it was an unbroken forest.

It was a dark, cold, December night, the wind swept fitfully among the great pines and beeches; strange, mournful sounds went sobbing through the forest; now and then an owl uttered its hoarse cry, or the sudden rattling of the leaves told when some timid animals scurried away from the sound of footsteps.

But Peter was strong and stout-hearted, and trudged quietly along, without paying much attention to the sights and sounds around him, until he had achieved perhaps one-half his journey, when suddenly his ears caught the sound of horse's feet descending the long, rocky path behind him. Gradually the sounds drew nearer, until the sharp peculiar voice of the horseman could be heard urging the beast to a faster gait.

"Ah! ah!" said Peter to himself, as he heard the familiar tones; "that is Uncle Tom Barry."

Now uncle Tom and Peter were neighbors; that is to say, their clearings lay about a mile apart, and none knew better than Peter that the old man was of a timid disposition, and furthermore, that nothing inspired him with greater fear, nothing that he had not rather meet than a wolf.

No sooner, therefore, had Peter become convinced that the horseman behind him was his neighbor than he resolved to use this trait of uncle Tom's as a means of working out what he considered would be a most capital joke. His plans were soon laid, and he proceeded to put them into execution. Creeping through the undergrowth which bordered his path, he crouched down and patiently awaited the approach of his victim. He had not waited long before Uncle Tom, his horse at a sharp trot, and himself casting timid glances around, arrived opposite his place of concealment. Peter allowed him to pass a few paces, and then springing forward on his hands and knees he uttered one or two snarling yelps, followed by the loud, clear, gathering cry of the wolves.

The effect upon Uncle Tom was electrical. Springing half way out of his saddle, he uttered a scream of terror, and then, stooping until his head nearly touched the mane, he plunged his spur into the horse's flanks, and was off down the road like a shot. As for Peter, he rolled over on his back, and kicked his heels in huge enjoyment of his success. Loud and long he laughed, occasionally varying the performance by making the forest ring with a repetition of the wild, savage cry that had struck terror into Uncle Tom's timid heart. But there is an end to all things, and so, after a while, there was an end of Peter's mirth, and he, wiping his eyes, regained the path, and was about to resume his journey, when he heard a sound that sent the cold shivers coursing over his body, and almost froze the blood in his veins.—The wolves had heard his successful imitation of their music, and were coming down, full cry, upon him.

In an instant he realized his position and peril. From the sounds he knew that the wolves were coming down on either side of the path he had just traveled, and therefore the nearest point of safety was his own clearing more than a mile away.

All this passed through his mind like a flash, and then calling all his energies into play, he dashed down the path with scarcely less speed and terror than did Uncle Tom Barry himself. Peter was a famous runner and had come off victor in many a trial of speed when the people had come together at a raising or log-rolling, but this was no holiday game. He was not taxing his muscle to win applause of admiring friends or to gratify an ambition to excel.

The race was for life.

Down the long slope that led to Pilkin's Hollow, and up the ascent beyond fled Peter, while hardly a hundred yards behind him came a snarling pack, hungry and fierce. The life of an unarmed man would not be worth a minute's purchase could they once surround him. This Peter acknowledged to himself, as a thought entered his mind of standing on the defensive, so he abandoned the thought before it was fully formed, and braced himself anew for flight.

Down another long slope, across a broad sheet of ice at its foot, and Letherboe's Hill, with its long, steep ascent, lay before him. He shuddered as he glanced up its side, for he felt that his strength would scarcely suffice to carry him to the top.—The perspiration streamed from every pore, his breath came in short, wheezing gasps, his steps were becoming unsteady, and once, striking his foot against a loose stone, he preserved himself from falling only by an exertion so great that the blood spurted from his nostrils and flames seemed to leap before his vision.

Still he kept on, though it seemed madness to hope, for his pursuers had gained on him fearfully; he knew it by the beating of their footsteps, but with energies inspired by mortal terror, he ran on, hoping to gain only the brow of the hill, for there the ground became more open, and his own cabin was but a few yards beyond. He felt sure that his pursuers would not follow him beyond the summit, but could he reach it before they would close upon him?

No, not by his own exertions, for just as the thought passed through his mind, his foot caught under a gnarled root that extended across the way, and he fell heavily forward. His head struck the frozen ground, and he lay senseless.

When Peter recovered consciousness he found himself hanging over the broad shoulders of his brother John, and about to enter his own door. Here he soon collected his scattered senses, and was able to listen intelligently to his brother's account of his rescue.

Uncle Tom Barry, in his flight, had stopped at the cabin long enough to shout through the window that the wolves were out, and hurried on. John, who lived with his brother, knowing that Peter must come the same path, took his gun and walked out to the edge of the forest, where he halted to listen. But a short time elapsed before he heard the sound of pursued and pursuers, and rushing down the hill he arrived upon the scene just in time to leap between Peter's prostrate form and the wolves, the foremost of which was no less than ten feet distant. Taking steady aim he shot a bullet into the creature's brain, and then while the pack were fighting over the dead body of their comrade, he slung Peter over his back and gained the open ground in safety.

Peter frankly told the whole truth about the affair, from beginning to end, and concluded the story with the emphatic assertion, that as long as he lived he would never be guilty of another practical joke, a vow which he faithfully kept.

AN exchange says "Most of the press people are making objections to the recent conferring of the degree of Doctor of Laws on General President Grant, by old Harvard. This is all wrong. If ever man has doctored the laws, without degree, for years, that man is Hiram Ulysses Simpson Grant. And hadn't everybody bestowed something upon him before? Then why not Harvard? One degree more will be conferred next fall. That will be ex-President by the electoral college."

THESE scientific men sometimes reach a very philosophical state of mind, in which they are pleased with the merest trifles. See how easily satisfied Professor Agassiz is! He says:

"I am satisfied, since I have examined the Tomocaris peirci, that trilobites are not any more closely related to the phyllopods than to any other entomostracae or to the isopods."

That would hardly satisfy an ordinary mortal.

THE SHAN VAN VOCHT.

Oh, did you hear the news, says the Shan Van Vocht;
Oh, did you hear the news, Simon Cameron has the blues,
And he's gone to take a snooze, says the Shan Van Vocht.

Buckalew is coming, says the Shan Van Vocht;
Buckalew is coming, don't you hear the drums a drumming,
And the office holders running, says the Shan Van Vocht.

We might as well begin, says the Shan Van Vocht;
We might as well begin, for Buckalew will win,
To oppose him is a sin, says the Shan Van Vocht.

He is an honest man, says the Shan Van Vocht;
He is an honest man, the best man that ever ran,
And he'll surely lead the van, says the Shan Van Vocht.

We will rally to the fight, says the Shan Van Vocht;
We will rally to the fight, we'll go there in all our might,
And we'll battle for the right, says the Shan Van Vocht.

Oh, if he is elected, says the Shan Van Vocht;
Oh, he's bound to be elected, and as might be expected.
The "ring" will be rejected, says the Shan Van Vocht.

We will firm, united stand, says the Shan Van Vocht;
We will firm, united stand, and we'll join with heart and hand,
To redeem our native land, says the Shan Van Vocht.

We will raise a mighty shout, says the Shan Van Vocht;
We will raise a mighty shout, and we'll put the ring to rout,
And we'll drive corruption out, says the Shan Van Vocht.

D. C. Forney Rises to Explain.

The New York Herald of the 29th ult., contains a long and severe review of the political character and personal career of Senator Cameron, from the pen of D. C. Forney publisher of the Washington Sunday Chronicle. This article was provoked by Senator Cameron's allusions to the Forneys in a recent interview with a Herald reporter. D. C. Forney's letter concludes as follows:

When I was in Harrisburg, a few weeks ago, General Cameron followed my brother, Wien Forney, and myself to the railroad depot, while we were on our way to Lancaster city, declaring that he wanted to see us both, and insisting that we call upon him. We consented to do this, and when we went we found him in his library engaged in conclave with some of the lowest and worst political characters of Harrisburg—of the old Fagin school, Bill Sykes and artful Dodgers—instead of, as a statesman should have been engaged, and particularly the chairman of the committee on foreign relations, with his books—with Vattle's Law of Nations. At this solicited meeting on the part of Gen. Cameron, he proposed to me to get Colonel Forney to change his course of opposition, but I declined to interfere, reminding Cameron of how I had tried to make peace for him in that quarter, and how repeatedly he had violated its honorable compacts. I called to his recollection his conduct at a private dinner given by Colonel Forney, just before the republican national convention, at which he, Senators Chandler, Anthony, Speaker Blaine, Secretary Robeson, and others were present, when he, Cameron, replied to a proposition to make Andrew G. Curtin the candidate for Vice President that "if that were done he would knock hell out of Grant and Curtin." I repeated, in reply to Cameron's urgent solicitude, my unwillingness to interfere between him and Colonel Forney, while he confessed that the Press was a power in Pennsylvania; that John W. Forney could have anything he desired if he only stopped fighting Hartranft; that they would take Allen off the ticket, and allow Forney to name a successor. "Indeed," said the wily old trickster, "we had almost frightened Allen into declining, but he has been stiffened by somebody and is now resolved to stick on the ticket." To all this I merely replied that Colonel Forney knew his own business and could conduct his own business, and his own fights; but that so far as I was concerned, I intended to stand by my own blood in all their honorable struggles for right and justice.

At this same dinner referred to his abuse of Curtin and every other independent man in the State was so insulting to the hospitality of Colonel Forney that even Cameron's personal friends who were present protested, and expressed surprise at his arrogance and dictation. He even went so far as to state—backing it up with a strong adjective—that no man should be recognized politically in his State without his consent; that he had controlled it so far, and could, if he desired, transmit the same power to his posterity.

I have made this communication already too long; but give me room for a few more words.

The republican party is sure to be defeated in Pennsylvania in October, and Simon Cameron's personal rule and political prostitutions are the causes which will produce the disaster. It is the only way for the people to get rid of him and break up the vile combination which he calculates to fasten on the State after he descends to his grave. It is the only escape from his pollutions and from the plunderage of those he has trained as his followers. It is the only way to light up dark places in the financial affairs of Pennsylvania; to cleanse its auditing office; to fix proper guards around its treasury, and prevent its chief magistrate from being made a vassal of the clan Cameron. A republican defeat at this time, I admit, is a fearful venture, but the tremendous influences demanding it in Pennsylvania are like the knife of the surgeon, which cuts deep into a rotten part to save an entire body from festering corruption and death. I rejoice to feel, therefore, that the people of Pennsylvania are moved by such a spirit, and the people of the whole country will be glad when the corrupt ring is sent to the grave of Tammany.

Yours, respectfully, D. C FORNEY.

IF there are any Democrats who think of voting for Grant in this State, let them remember they will have to vote for Patterson, the negro elector on the Grant ticket.

WE ask our readers to carefully study the letter of Judge BLACK, the most able and pure statesman in the United States. Also the conclusive letter from CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, proving how easily and genteelly the truth will silence a mendacious sheet like the Pittsburgh Commercial.

NORTH CAROLINA AGAIN, AND MONTANA.—We always believed that MERRIMON, the Democratic candidate for Governor of North Carolina, would be elected by the official vote. The following dispatch tells the latest news:

WASHINGTON, August 13.—A private dispatch received here to-night from North Carolina leaves but little doubt that on summing up the official vote Merrimon will be elected Governor.

In addition to the foregoing, we publish the following dispatch from Montana as an indication of popular sentiment in favor of the three H's and the three G's—Horace Greeley, Honest Government, and Hoisting Grant out of the position he dishonors:

HELENA, Aug. 12.—Official returns elect Major Maginnis, Liberal Democrat, Delegate to Congress by 300 majority. Altho' denied the privilege of participating in the political affairs of the Union, Montana gives her moral support to Greeley and Brown, whose election we believe will guarantee an honest and prosperous administration of national affairs and unite the people of our country in the bonds of eternal friendship.

RUFUS E. ARICK.
Chairman Democratic Central Committee.

Buckalew and Hannan.

There is not a Democrat in Cambria county who will not eagerly go to the polls and vote for CHARLES R. BUCKALEW for Governor. They will do so, because his whole public life proves him to be a pure man and an able statesman. If BUCKALEW is elected, as we feel confident he will be, there ought to be a majority of Democrats and Liberal Republicans in the Legislature to uphold and sustain him in the work of thorough and complete reform in the management of the State government. No Democrat ought to vote for BUCKALEW and at the same time cast his ballot for SAMUEL HENRY. Oil and water will not mingle; neither can there be any political affiliation or sympathy between CHARLES R. BUCKALEW and SAMUEL HENRY, the Radical candidate for Assembly in this county. Mr. HENRY, although a gentleman in all his personal relations, is to-day as bitter and vindictive a Radical as this or any other county in the State can produce. Was SAMUEL HENRY ever known to vote for a Democrat? Let any man ask him, and his reply will be that he never did and that he never will. He has a perfect right to vote as he pleases, but he is now asking Democrats to return him to the Legislature. Of course he can never be again elected unless it is done by Democratic votes. This is a self-evident proposition. How can any honest friend of BUCKALEW vote to put a club in the hands of SAMUEL HENRY to strike BUCKALEW to the earth in his honest efforts to redeem the State from the rule of a mercenary and corrupt ring of public thieves and plunderers?

Is that the way for any man who is a true friend of Mr. BUCKALEW to nerve and strengthen his arm? Any Democrat who will thus vote to stab CHARLES R. BUCKALEW under the fifth rib, although he may think he is acting from honest motives, is committing the most fatal political mistake of his whole life. BUCKALEW, unless all political signs fail, will be elected Governor at the approaching election. The cry in favor of honesty and reform has gone up from Maine to Oregon, and the people are determined that it must and shall be accomplished.

CHARLES R. BUCKALEW is one of the foremost and most distinguished leaders in this last hope of the country's redemption.

SAMUEL HENRY is the declared advocate and apologist of all the sins and iniquities of GRANT's administration. He is the political foe of BUCKALEW, and, if elected again, will be the sworn enemy of his administration. John HANNAN, the Democratic candidate, is a gentleman of high and admitted purity of character. He is a Democrat, and therefore in favor of the election of BUCKALEW. He will sustain the latter in all his honest efforts to redeem the State from the hands of the corrupt Treasury and CAMERON ring at Harrisburg. Can any Democrat sustain SAMUEL HENRY and vote against JOHN HANNAN if he sincerely desires the election of CHARLES R. BUCKALEW?

What is proposed to be accomplished by the election of SAMUEL HENRY so far as the interests of Cambria country are concerned? Will he attempt to revive and resurrect the District Court which has very recently been pronounced to be illegal and unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the State? That decision ought to settle that issue. If the friends of SAMUEL HENRY in Johnstown will place him in the position of being the advocate of a new county to be called "Conemaugh," with Johnstown as its county seat, let them say so, and then let them not quarrel with the celebrated Ebensburg "Ring," but with Somerset, Westmoreland and Indiana counties.—Whenever that issue is squarely presented between JOHN HANNAN and SAM'L HENRY, we will discuss it in a spirit of decency and candor, and with a view to do full and impartial justice to the North as well as to the South of the county.

An Honest Republican's Opinion of Hartranft and Allen.

Senator Billingfelt, of Lancaster, whose six-year Senatorial career has won for him the enviable designation of an "honest man," has written a letter, in which he gives in clear and forcible language his reasons for declining to be bound to give a written pledge to support the state candidates of the Republican party. We regret that we have not room for the whole of the Senator's letter. The following paragraph, selected almost at random, will give an idea of the entire document, Emanating from such a source, it is, at this time, when Cameronian rascality is on the rampage and ready for any possible deeds of corruption, opportune. Every taxpayer should give it an attentive perusal. The Senator says:

"It is to me a painful task to arraign any of our state officials before the bar of public opinion, when I remember that for many years our personal relations have been of the most friendly character, and that they have performed many acts for which they received credit and deserve praise.

"But, as public officers, it is their imperative duty, at all times, so to deport themselves that all their official acts may result in the public good, without regard to private or individual interests. And herein I believe both candidates at the head of the Republican state ticket have failed to meet the just expectations of the public; and having thus failed, my support, which would otherwise have been cheerfully given, must be withheld, and, consequently, myself deprived of the privilege of receiving your support at the preliminary elections."

EX-PRESIDENT JOHNSON ON THE SITUATION.—Ex-President Johnson spoke for two hours and a half at Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday night last. He said he was no candidate for office. The Government had been drifting from constitutional moorings, and become a plaything of an irresponsible Congress at the dictation of an usurping executive. He reviewed President Grant's administration with severity, and discussed official "gift taking" as bribery. He favored one term, and the election of President by a direct vote.—The re-election of Grant would be a national disaster. He accepted Greeley on the principle of universal pressure and circumstances beyond human control, which has limited the choice to two men. Patriots cannot hesitate to choose Greeley. It is no time to say this or that is or is not my party, but let us all unite. In saying this is my country, the country must have reconciliation, restoration, civil rights to all citizens, confidence between sections, and reform of civil service. He pleaded for the return of the ancient reverence for the Constitution and official obligations.

"WHAT about Pennsylvania?" said a reporter of the Philadelphia Telegraph to Col. McClure the other day. "It is iron-clad," says the colonel. "It will give Greeley not less than it gave Lincoln in 1860 and probably more." "Would Hartranft's withdrawal affect the result?" Not in the least. If the party could have clearly separated from Cameron in the beginning the result might have been doubtful in October, but the Apostle Paul could not be elected Governor under Cameron's leadership. If Grant and Cameron were withdrawn, the party might be saved from utter disintegration, but cutting off an arm or a leg would not stem the tide for a moment. Hartranft is neither stronger nor weaker than the Cameron republican organization, and Curtin himself would be no stronger under such a flag."

In 1868 the Radical candidate for Governor of North Carolina was elected by a majority of 12,136. The reader can deduce his own conclusions—we figure thus: Four years ago the Radicals had 18,641 majority; it would require again of 4,660 a year. The Republican majority for Governor this year is but 500. If the Democrats have been able to reduce the majority 4,000 a year for four years and continue to do so for three months longer they will carry the State in November, since, hereafter, every new convert to Greeley will count two against Grant. Where our Radical friends find reasons for rejoicing over such a victory we cannot conceive.

THE Fulton Democrat gets off the following good one. It ought to go all OVER the country:

"Davy Over, when editor of the Bedford Inquirer, punished our candidate for Auditor General very severely. He struck Mr. Hartley's fist a violent blow with his nose, almost demolishing that gentleman's digits, and then followed this line of conduct up closely by running against Mr. Hartley's No. 15 boots backwards, damaging them very materially. He would have 'licked' him worse, but he was afraid that it would interfere with his sitting arrangements."

MR. DAVID A. WELLS, who does not love Mr. Greeley over-much, has demonstrated by indisputable figures that Gen. Grant's Administration has proved more expensive and been more extravagant than that of Andrew Johnson.

AT a Workingmen's Convention held in Pottsville last Tuesday, Hon. C. L. Pershing, of Johnstown, was nominated for Judge of the Schuylkill Judicial district.

HON. JEREMIAH S. BLACK.

Interesting Letter on the Political Situation---The Democracy and Horace Greeley---Argument in Favor of the Baltimore Ticket.

On the 29th of July, the Hon. W. H. Welsh, formerly of Pennsylvania, but now one of the editors and proprietors of the Baltimore Gazette, addressed a letter to Judge Black, stating that his name had been used to promote the interests of the Grant faction, and suggested an expression of his views and opinions on the Presidential contest. To this letter Judge Black replies as follows:

To William H. Welsh, Esq., Editor of the Baltimore Gazette:

MY DEAR SIR: I promised the gentleman who delivered your letter that I would answer it fully and as soon as I could consistently with other engagements. I am fulfilling that promise. If I take more time and space than might be expected, you will please to remember that I and a great many other democrats are in a position which requires something more than this construction without furnishing a rather full explanation.

I admit that the next President must be Grant or Greeley. The circumstances of the political situation limit our choice to these two men, as strictly as if nobody else were legally eligible. We must weigh them against one another, and, like practical men, decide the case before us in favor of the best. Even if we find no good in either of them, we must take that one who shall appear to be least bad.

It is undeniable that the leading measures of this Administration are not only unconstitutional, but are anti-constitutional, showing not merely a contemptuous indifference to constitutional obligations, but a settled hostility to those rights of the States, and those liberties of the people which the organic law was made to secure. The President's appointment of officers and his general exercise of public authority, under the influence of men who paid him large sums of money, are scandalous outrages, and the effort to defend them has combined with other like causes to extinguish among his subordinates all respect for those rules of morality which used to be held sacred. When we consider what these men have done in the North, and add to it the large-handed robberies perpetrated in the South by the retainers of the President, with his direct aid and assistance, we are compelled to acknowledge that no other government now in the world is administered so entirely for personal and partisan purposes, or in such complete disregard for the right and interest of the general public. This demoralization is not confined to the Executive branch, the tide of corruption rolls in upon the Legislature, and in some places it has risen high enough to touch the feet of the judiciary. Even the rank and file of the President's party have become debauched, let us hope not altogether, but certainly in a fearful degree. Acts which in former times a hardened criminal would hesitate to whisper in the ear of his accomplice, can now be openly advocated by a political leader, not only with safety, but with a tolerable chance of being sustained by a sort of public opinion. That love of liberty and justice which used to pervade the whole community now "reneges all temper," and yields without resistance to the unprincipled demagogues who would enthrone fraud.

"Make the hoar leprosy adorned; place thieves,
And give them title, knee and approbation,
With Senators on the bench."

If General Grant had been equal in mind and heart to the exigencies of the times he could easily have made himself a great public benefactor. He might have purified official and political morals by simply setting the example in his own person of a clean-handed devotion to duty. His own obedience to the laws would have restored them to universal supremacy. All the objects of the Constitution as recited in the preamble would have been accomplished but for the obstruction with which he himself impeded them. Unfortunately the interests of certain rings were in conflict with the interests of the country, and they, by large presents, seduced him into their service. The public contracted to give him the salary which his predecessors had been content with; the rings offered him more; he accepted their bounty, fell over to them, and took the Government into his hands as "a Black Republican job."

Now, as to Greeley. It cannot be pretended that his political life is very symmetrical. He was in the ranks of the Radical Abolitionsts for a good many years.—That is bad; for such associations would have a natural tendency to debase him. But we must not forget that, though he was with them, he was not always of them. He refused to be a partaker in their worst iniquities; he had none of their diabolical hatred for the Constitution; he did not lend his lips to their ribald blasphemies, and his feet were never swift in running to shed innocent blood. Before the great conflict began, his opposition to the designs of the Abolitionists against the Federal and State Governments, impelled him to the opposite heresy of the secessionists. Like the Roman father, who killed his daughter to save her from a worse fate, he chose to destroy the Government, rather than see it dishonored and violated by lawless force. When the war was flagrant, he provoked the extremest rage of his associates by exerting himself for a peace which would have left all the people in possession of their constitutional liberties. After the close of the contest, he was the advocate of regular and legal, as well as honest government for all parts of the country. I have good authority for saying that he never gave his approval to any form of kidnapping or murder, by military commission. In short, although he did join the Abolitionists in their "devil's dance," he never learned to keep step with his partners, and we all know that when he could not stop it, he left it, and denounced it with becoming indignation.

On another point he ought to have credit. The friends of religious freedom owe him an old debt of gratitude for the zeal and ability with which he resisted the church burners when banded together in the secret lodges of the Know-Nothing order. It is but reasonable to believe that his opposition saved the country from the great danger it was once in of being subjugated by that infamous organization.

He has often been accused of complicity in cheats of one kind or another, but in every case he has triumphantly refuted the charges. For this, and for other reasons, I conclude that his personal integrity is without a stain.

He has many times spoken of the Democratic party and its most honored members in harsh and abusive terms. These are faults of manner, and of temper, which when mended, are always pardoned. We will not permit our judgment to be disturbed by considerations so trifling as this.

I have looked into his past history only to ascertain what he is now and what he is likely to be in the future. I am bound to care nothing for his "antecedents," except as they furnish the means of estimating his character. I think I have found out with reasonable certainty how far we may confide in him. I devoutly believe that, if, chosen President, he will keep his oath, preserve the constitution inviolate, execute the laws faithfully, restore the States to their rightful autonomy, protect individual liberty by jury trial and habeas corpus, put the military in proper subordination to the civil authority, use neither force nor fraud to carry elections, keep his hands clean from corrupting gifts, set his face like a flint against all manner of financial dishonesty, purify the Administration of Justice as much as in him lies, maintain the public credit by a prompt discharge of all just obligations, economize the revenue and lighten taxation, give to capital the right which belongs to it, and at the same time see that labor is not robbed of its earnings. He will certainly hold his power of appointment as a public trust, and not as a part of his personal possession, to be used for the support of his family, or to encourage the private liberty of his friends. He will, so far as he can without transgressing the limits of his legal authority, relieve the Southern States from the gangs that are now preying upon their vitals in open partnership with the present Administration.

I think he will do all this; and my faith is founded on the testimony of his friends and enemies, on the known facts of his history, and on the moral influence which the Democracy will necessarily exert upon his conduct. The errors of his past life were caused by certain evil communications from which he has cleanly escaped. He heads a great revolt against wickedness in high places, and I do not believe he will go back upon us and be guilty of the same wickedness himself.

The contrast between the two candidates being so very strong, no fair-minded Democrat can doubt what he ought to do. Yet, the reluctance which many of us feel to vote for either of them is hard to overcome. I did, and do, most heartily sympathize with that class which received Mr. Greeley's nomination in much sorrow. I am sure this feeling proceeded from no unworthy passion or prejudice, but was the natural result of sober thought on the condition of the country and the fitness of things pertaining thereto.

In our view the controversy between the parties was not all about men, and not wholly on questions of mere administration. The Liberal Republicans and some Democrats think that we owe all our sufferings to the corruption or incapacity of General Grant and the rings that surround him.—But the prime cause lies farther back and deeper down in wrongs for which the triumph of Mr. Greeley with all his reforms offers no immediate atonement, and only a partial remedy.

In England, after every civil commotion the victorious party vented its rage and gratified its rapacity by passing bills of attainder and bills of pains and penalties against their fallen and helpless opponents. The best and greatest men of their respective ages were the victims of these legislative decrees. In all the most notable cases subsequent Parliaments acknowledged the wrong, reversed the attainders, and made what reparation they could. Our fathers determined that no such thing should ever be done here, and so they put their solemn interdict into plain words, and made it a part of the fundamental law that neither Congress nor any State Legislature should ever pass a bill of attainder.

The reconstruction act of 1867 was a Bill of Attainder more deliberately cruel, and with pains and penalties more compendiously unjust than any British bill that ever was passed. But its authors were conscious that it could not stand, and they must replace it with something else, for sooner or later the courts would be sure to pronounce it void. Besides, the object being to put the Southern people under the domination of greedy adventurers from the North with unlimited license to oppress and plunder them, the officers of the army were not very good agents in such a nefarious business. The negroes would be instruments of tyranny much more easily managed. But an act of Congress disfranchising the white people for offences real or imputed, and handing over their State governments to negroes to be run by them in the interests of carpets-baggers, would be merely another Bill of Attainder, or rather a modification of the first one making it much worse, but equally within the reach of judicial correction. In this strait they resorted to the expedient of converting the Constitution itself into a Bill of Attainder.

The Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments were frauds, upon the spirit and letter of the instrument, inasmuch as they effected the worst outrage which it was made to prevent. They were carried against the known will of nearly every State in the Union by shameless deception in the North, and by brutal violence in the South.—"May this be washed in Lethe and forgotten?" Certainly not, as long as any portion of our people are compelled to bear the intolerable burden of the yoke thus fastened upon them. I need not say how much they have suffered already, nor try to conjecture how much they will be called to endure hereafter; but it is certain that any ordinary despotism would have been a visitation of mercy in comparison. When we reflect upon the number and rapacity of the thieves that have been upheld in their pillage by means of the negro governments, we cannot help but regret the non-adoption of Mr. Stevens' proposition, atrocious as it was, for universal confiscation. The pernicious consequences of this rule are felt in the general as well as the local governments. The legislature of Congress is largely controlled by fit representatives of the carpet-bag interests, and the worst acts of the Executive administration are done to please the power which corrals the negroes at the meeting-places of the leagues, and drives them thence to the polls.

Mr. Greeley's election will not do all that we could wish to free us from these evils; it will not even be a popular condemnation of the base means by which they were inflicted upon us; but it will begin the process of their gradual extinction. It will give the white people a reasonable hope that the heritable qualities of their fathers' blood may some day be restored. In the meantime, if it does not reverse the attainder, it will at least insure a merciful execution of it. Democrats who disliked Mr. Greeley's nomination have reflected well, and I think will support him with almost perfect unanimity. The thought that a victory will not give us everything at once may diminish in some degree "the rapture of the strife," but it will not impair the efficiency of their support, for they are impelled to their utmost exertions by a profound conviction that nothing but his election will save the country from a long period of misgovernment and perhaps the total destruction of our free institutions.

I am with great respect, yours, &c.

J. S. BLACK.

York, Pa., Aug. 3. 1872.

A PATENT MEDICINE CANDIDATE.—The Radical candidate for Auditor-General, Harrison Allen, is, if the Patriot speaks the truth, the silent partner of a patent-medicine manufacturer in the city of Harrisburg. The name of the nostrum sold by this firm is "Nature's Assistant," and the part of the business to which Harrison Allen devotes his attention is the forgery of certificates of cures which were never effected. He furnishes these from the repository of a reckless imagination, and fits them up to suit every disease to which the human system is liable. The certificates profess to come from all parts of the world, and from people of every class. It is estimated that Allen has been cured of over one hundred different diseases since last November, and yet he is a sallow and sickly looking individual. As a walking advertisement of "Nature's Assistant" he would not prove to be a success, and so he confines himself to the manufacture of certificates.

Pointed and Pungent Address from the Liberal State Committee.

Liberal Republican State Committee Rooms, Philadelphia, August 10.

To the Liberal Republicans of Pennsylvania:—Four years ago North Carolina opened the Presidential campaign in Aug., by electing a Grant Governor by 18,641 majority; a Grant Senate, 41 to 8; a Grant House 82 to 38, and five Grant members of Congress of the seven then chosen.

This year North Carolina has opened the Presidential campaign, after all the appliances of Administration Power had been exhausted, by a Grant Governor returned as elected by a nominal majority that is assailed as fraudulent; a Greeley majority of fourteen elected to the Senate; a Greeley majority of ten in the House, and five Greeley Congressmen of the eight.

In West Virginia, a State that was warmly contested in 1868 and carried by the Grant candidate for Governor in August by 4,717, both the candidates for Governor to be voted for on the 22d inst., are ardent supporters of the Liberal Republican National candidates, the Grant party being unwilling to venture a contest.

Vermont gave 27,326 majority for the Grant candidate for Governor in 1868. It will give from one-third to one-half less on the 3d of September next, and would do still better for the Liberal cause but for the fact that it is the only hopelessly Grant State in the Uuion.

Maine gave 20,404 majority for the Grant candidate for Governor in 1868. On the 9th of September next not one-third the majority of '68 can be given, and the success of the Liberal candidate for Governor is possible, and the solid delegation of Grant Congressmen will be broken.

When these preliminary contests shall have been decided, the Keystone State must next speak in October, and her judgment will be irreversible.

Pennsylvania will be won, and won overwhelmingly. It will not be done by spontaneous tidal waves, but sincere convictions and easy work. The devotion of her people to free government, to the supremacy of law, and to municipal, State, and National reform, and their systematic, organized efforts for their cause will achieve success.

Broken, discordant, and demoralized as are the Grant and Cameron ranks in Pennsylvania, they will yet rally in desperation to prolong their debauched rule in this city and State. Their means are vast, their power reaches to every election district, and they will multiply the political resources of the Administration to the uttermost to secure a triumph over the people they have humiliated and betrayed.

In Philadeldhia their plans for unexampled frauds are not disguised, and it is their boast that the law, the courts, and the people are powerless to arrest the purposes of organized crime. They will yet learn that the great tribunal of public opinion and the ceaseless vigilance of honest men will make this deliberately-devised wrong impossible.

In every section of the State fraud and venality will go open-handed amongst the people to maintain the Cameron rule in Pennsylvania. It is sincerely condemned by two-thirds of the voters of this Commonwealth, but it exercises despotic control of the so called Republican organization, selects its candidates without regard to the popular will, dispenses its honors in State and Nation solely to maintain offensive personal supremacy, and pursues unrelentlessly all who do not willingly bow to their own shame.

All whose cupidity is stronger than their convictions, of whatever political faith, will be finally arrayed against the Liberal cause, and all that fraud can accomplish will be done to save an organization once honored but now prostituted to corrupt and selfish ends. In New York the discarded Tammany leaders, Tweed, Connolly & Co., are enlisted for Grant, under the management of Murphy and O'Brien, and in Philadelphia the combined Rings are enlisted in the same cause under the management of Cameron and Bunn.

We know the resources and desperation of the opposition, and cannot undervalue their power; but organization, vigilance, and a just cause will defy all the multiplied appliances the administration can employ in the contest. Here in Pennsylvania we must meet the most desperate assaults of pervert authority: here its ranks will be hopelessly broken.

Liberals of Pennsylvania! Let organization be hastened and perfected in every district. We have the post of danger, but it is the post of honor as well, in this mighty struggle for a free and regenerated government. From every section of the Union come words of cheer. The South has broken the bonds of disorder and profligacy and declared for liberty and law, and the North will soon answer back the demand for conciliation and peace.

Let every faithful citizen perform his whole duty and a Reform Governor, a Reform Legislature, a Reform Congressional delegation, and a Reform United States Senator will attest the substantial fruits of our victory, and a nation will stand upon the threshold of assured redemption by the decisive verdict of our people.

A. K. MCCLURE,
Chairman Liberal Republican State Committee.

A BLACKBERRY BUSH GROWING IN A LADY'S MOUTH.—A dentist in Delaware city is responsible for the following: A lady having had a tooth extracted, accompanied with considerable laceration of the gum, returned about three week, after the operation, complaining of shooting pains in that portion of the mouth, with a feeling of swelling in the gums. Supposing it merely the effects of the shattered condition of the jaw-bone, the doctor told her it would soon pass away, advising some soothing lotion. Three weeks later the lady returned, insisting upon it that a new tooth was growing in the place of the old one, upon which the dentist made a more careful examination, when he discovered two primordial leaves of a black-berry bush, and upon extracting them, found that fibres an eighth of an inch in length had forced themselves into the pulpy flesh. The lady then recalled the circumstance of having eaten blackberries with cream the evening following the operation, and supposed that one of the seeds had found a lodgment in the soft wound, where it had germinated and developed. If that don't beat Grant or any other man, nothing will.

HIRAM GREEN, Esq., thinks "that the Grant organ's 'good riddance to bad rubbish' cry at the loss of such men as Gen. Banks, Chief-Justice, Chase, Horace Greeley, Lyman Trumbull, Carl Schurz, and Charles Sumner, is equal to the consolation felt by old Tommy Blinco when he lost both of his feet in a saw-mill. 'Wall,' said the old man, groaning with pain, 'it's good they're gone, for somehow or other it took a power o' money to keep the d—d things in shoe leather.'"

—Mr. Augusta Wilhelm of Marion township, has a cow which gave birth to a calf on Sunday, weighing one hundred and eighteen pounds. The breed is of Pinacle stock, and although bought of Jared Loose, a Republican, the calf was born on Democratic soil. The pedigree of the bull is not known.—Reading Gazette.

State Teachers' Association.

The nineteenth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association will be held in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 20th, 21st, 22d. The address of welcome will be made on Tuesday morning by Prof. Frederick F. Christine, A. M., of Philad'a, and the response by Prof. A. R. Horne, A. M., Chairman of the Executive Committee. The Deputy State Superintendent of Common Schools, and President of the Association, will deliver his inaugural at noon. In the afternoon a special Superintendent's meeting will be held. In the evening an essay will be read and several lectures and addresses delivered. On Wednesday morning the State Board of Examiners will make a report, which will be discussed by eminent educators. In the afternoon a meeting in the park will be held, at which there are to be orations, impromptu speeches, etc., followed by drives and rambles in the west and east parks. The reading of an original poem and an essay and the discussion of school matters will constitute the evening's proceedings. On Thursday morning William H. Johnson, a teacher seventy-eight years old, will read a paper on facts touching the progress of education in the State during the past fifty years. The subject of coeducation of the sexes in American colleges will be discussed by several Presidents of Colleges. In the afternoon a steamboat excursion (free to members) will be had from Riverton to Chester. In the evening an essay will be read and several addresses delivered.

On Friday morning the members of the association will go on an excursion to Long Branch (round trip two dollars). Members showing their cards of membership and having them stamped will obtain tickets at fifty cents reduction, making the fare $1.50 for the round trip. It is desirable that those who intend to accompany the excursion provide themselves with tickets as early as possible, so that the necessary arrangements may be made for the accommodation of all.

A complete orchestra will be in attendance during the morning session, which will play under the direction of Prof. Jean Louis whenever called upon. On the evening of the 20th the "Saengerbund" (fifty members) will sing several pieces under direction of Prof. Wm. Hartmann. On the evening of the 21st the "Young Maennerchor" will sing under the direction of Prof. Wm. Hartmann. On the evening of the 22d "Young Maennerchor" and "Boquet of Artists" of Philadelphia. The "Young Maennerchor" (sixty members) will accompany "in corpore" the excursion to Long Branch. An anthem will be sung every morning by some school of Philadelphia under the direction of Prof. Lewis.

Persons having orders from the ticket agent of the Association can procure excursion tickets at the principal stations on the Cumberland Valley railroad, Lehigh Valley railroad, North Penn'a railroad, Northern Central railroad and Pennsylvania railroad. Excursion tickets can be procured (without orders) at the principal stations on the Catawissa and the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg railroads, and Philad'a and Reading railroad and branches. Persons having paid full fare one way can procure from the ticket agent passes to return free on the Allegheny Valley railroad, Delaware and Hudson railroad, and Oil Creek and Allegheny railroad.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Letter from Senator Buckalew.

His Record on the Question of Soldiers' Bounties.

To the Editor of the Lycoming Standard:

SIR: The article you send me, cut from the Pittsburgh Commercial, is a remarkable specimen of mendacity, concocted upon the pretense of reciting my record in Congress.

I take the first item given in the article, for illustration:

"December 22, 1863. On an amendment to the Deficiency Appropriation bill, 'that no bounties except such as are now provided by law shall be paid to any person enlisting after the fifth day of January next,' Mr. Buckalew voted nay.'"

Upon this the Commercial says:

"He voted against paying bounties to volunteers. He would have deprived the soldier of all bounties because he hated the cause for which they fought, and wanted to discourage the enlistment of volunteers."

In fact the bill in question was for an appropriation of twenty millions of dollars "for the payment of bounties and advanced pay" to soldiers, and I was for it heartily and voted for its passage. The record shows that I was present and that the bill passed unanimously. The amendment mentioned above, against which I voted, was an amendment to reduce bounties, or to prevent the military authorities from paying more than $100 bounty for each soldier after 5th of January, 1864, whereas they were then paying $300 under the President's proclamation of 17th October, 1863. The President had called for three hundred thousand men and had promised this larger bounty to all who should come into the service before the 5th of January following, except veterans re-enlisting, who were to receive $400. The amendment was simply to prevent the President from paying, or engaging to pay, under any circumstances, more than $100 in future. I was opposed to this amendment and voted against it, considering it to be unwise, unjust and impracticable—unwise because it would discourage the filling of the army and limit the President's discretion in case of emergency; unjust because it would fix different rates of compensation for soldiers of equal merit and serving for equal terms, and wholly impracticable because neither the spirit of the country nor the manhood of the soldier would sanction it. I may add that it was not maintained afterwards, for the larger bounties were voted and paid. For instance, the joint resolution of January 16 1864, provided that the larger bounties should continue to be paid from the 5th of January to the 1st of March of that year, and by subsequent legislation, the ground taken by me in my vote of 22d of December, was fully assumed and endorsed by Congress.

This false imputation which I have exposed, is no more gross and unjust than many others in the article sent me, but I have taken it because it stands first in order among them, and constitutes a fit representative of the whole.

C. R. BUCKALEW.

JOYFUL JOURNEY.—The ways of life, although chequered over with pain and suffering, can be greatly smoothed over by a careful attention to the health of the body.

Do not let disease fasten on the strongholds of life before you do something for it. We speak more particularly of these chronic maladies which cling to us for years with untold misery, not bad enough to make us bed-sick, but still full of suffering and anxiety. Among these lingering ailments are those of the lungs and pulmonary organs for which people have been made to believe there is no cure. Do not believe it, but try. Try DR. KEYSER's LUNG CURE. It will renew the energies of life and make its machinery roll with evenness and harmony. Not only in lung diseases is DR. KEYSER's LUNG CURE of value, but in all those morbid states of the system where energy is wanting and where dullness abounds. Sold at 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, at $1.50 per bottle, or 4 for $5.00.

ORPHANS' COURT SALE.

BY virtue of a plurius order of the Orphans' Court of Cambria county, there will be exposed to public sale, at the Court House in the Borough of Ebensburg, on Monday, the 2d day of September next, at 1 o'clock, P. M., the following described real estate, of which PETER RAGER died seized, to wit:

A PIECE or PARCEL of LAND situate in the township of Jackson, county of Cambria, adjoining lands of Geo. Wehn, ... Albaugh, and others, containing 103 Acres more or less, about 50 Acres of which are cleared, having thereon erected a one-and-a-half story LOG HOUSE.

Also, a Piece or Parcel of Land situate in the township and county aforesaid, adjoining the land above described and lands of the Cambria Iron Co., containing 54 Acres, more or less, about 30 Acres of which are cleared, having thereon erected a one-and-a-half story HOUSE, LOG BARN and FRAME STABLE.

☞ The above described lands will be sold in one piece, or in lots to suit purchasers.

TERMS OF SALE.—One-half the purchase money to be paid on confirmation of the sale, and the balance in one year thereafter, with interest, to be secured by the mortgage and judgment bond of the purchaser.

MICHAEL H. RAGER, Administrator.

NOTICE.

THE LABOR REFORM PARTY of Cambria County will send Delegates to a Conference to be held in Johnstown, on Saturday, Sept. 7th, 1872, at 10 o'clock, A. M.—said Delegates to meet at Thomas Davis' Hotel, Market street, (nearly opposite new Market House,) and from thence proceed to Miners' Hall, to transact business of importance concerning the State campaign, and, if deemed advisable, to place in nomination a full County Ticket.

JAS. McFADDEN,
State Executive.

Aug. 12, 1872.-3t.*

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

WORK AHEAD.—The Democratic Executive Committee of this county met at the office of JOHN S. RHEY, Esq., on last Tuesday. The object and purpose of the meeting was to organize the party for the current political campaign. Mr. NATHANIEL HORNE, Johnstown, Chairman of said Committee, was present, and JACOB ZIMMERMAN, Esq., of Johnstown, acted as Secretary. Whatever else was done we are permitted to say that Mr. HORNE was authorized to invite CHARLES R. BUCKALEW, A. K. MCCLURE, R. MILTON SPEER, and other leading Democrats and Liberal Republicans, to address the people of Cambria county in this place on Tuesday, the 3d day of September, being the first week of the ensuing Court. Whenever Mr. HORNE informs us, as he will do, of who among the distinguished gentleman named will be here we will give full and ample notice. One thing we are assured in saying, and that is that BUCKALEW and M'CLURE will be here. We will announce the fact of their certain presence next week, and will then give the proper public notice of the fact.

Haps and Mishaps at and near Home.

—Thermometer 90° in the shade.

—Trout-fishing is past for this year.

—The Blair county Democratic convention will meet on the 3d September.

—The fattest woman in Johnstown weighs two hundred and seventy-six pounds.

—The Huntingdon Labor Reformers will nominate a county ticket on the 21st.

—Clearfield county will hold an agricultural fair commencing on the 30th September.

—Parties wishing to buy a bill of candies at lowest wholesale prices should call at S. P. McCann's, Ebensburg.

—Charles Hawkins and Thomas Parfett ran a foot-race in Johnstown last Saturday for $10 a side. The latter won.

—Cyrus Casebeer was thrown from a buggy near Somerset last Friday and so seriously injured that he died shortly afterward.

—Cholera infantum is playing havoc with the children of Altoona. Eleven deaths on Friday last and seven on Saturday are reported.

—John Dipple, at Lewistown, attempted to cross the railroad track in front of an approaching locomotive, the other day, and was killed.

—James Null, Esq., will start on a collecting and canvassing tour for the Freeman next week, and we hope his trip will not prove null and void.

—A black bear was seen by a couple of boys a half mile west of town last Sunday. The population in that direction are up in arms against it.

—Mrs. James McIntyre, of Newry, Blair county, last Wednesday gave birth to triplets. All doing well—mother, triplets, Mac and the Intyre family.

—Two thieves recently broke into the Presbyterian church at McConnelsburg, Fulton county, and stole a bible, the which they traded off for whisky.

—Johnstown continues to complain of vandals who destroy shrubbery, tear up the sod, and otherwise injure the ground and graves in the Union graveyard.

—If you want to get peaches by the box, call at S. P. McCann's, Ebensburg, and leave your orders. He will furnish them at lowest cash prices, in large or small quantities.

—"If the mountain won't come to Mahomet, Mahomet will have to go to the mountain,"—albeit, his name is not Mahomet, but Null, and he'll be around there shortly.

—When the 1st of September comes, call on S. P. McCann for oysters, clams, lobsters, etc. Oysters and clams will be received daily by express, and of the best quality. Fresh fish at the proper season.

—Lost, one day last week, either on High or Julian streets, a lady's black silk scarf. The finder, presuming it has fallen into honest hands, will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office.

—Leonard Smith, 75 years old, and Helen Roberts, 72, both colored, were married in Philipsburg recently. This does not look as though the once numerous Smith family is going to be allowed to entirely die out.

—F. A. Shoemaker, Esq., and wife, who had been absent for several weeks on an extended tour westward, returned home last Saturday night. They took in California, Salt Lake City, and many other points of interest, in their trip.

—A ball given at the Hulbert House, Johnstown, last Friday evening, was broken up by a party of rowdies. A fight ensued, heads and glassware were smashed, and the affair wound up with a hearing before the Burgess next morning.

—It is pretty hard to have to work as hard as we do, beg as hard as we do, and then receive hardly any response from those who owe us more or less hard-earned money. All which argues extreme hard-heartedness on part of delinquents.

—Mr. H. C. Kaylor has taken the agency for the sale in this county of Krider & Bro.'s Family Record, a very neat and beautiful design for enclosing photographs preparatory to framing the same. For family groups it is just the thing. Price $1.50.

—A lively game of "draw poker" was indulged in by a lady of this place on Wednesday, and a boon companion of her husband, whose potations are deep and not "long between drinks," held the losing cards. The game was won with one hand.

—A correspondent sends us word that it was "a scrub nine of white fellows," and not the Amateurs, that played the Phoenix (colored) club a game of base ball in Johnstown lately, and that the correct score was 44 to 46 in favor of the Phoenix.

—Mrs. Ellen Hart, of Alleghany township, Blair county, who for two years had suffered from some malignant ailment of the ankle joint, submitted to amputation of the diseased part last week, and is now rapidly recovering her wonted health.

—The Republican county convention of Huntingdon met on Tuesday, and nominated A. L. Guss for Congress over S. S. Blair by a vote of 43 to 39. Mr. Wharton withdrew from the canvass. The Mifflin convention will be held on the 19th.

—On Thursday morning last, the steam saw-mill of our friend and subscriber Gen. B. F. Bell, at Bell's Mills, Blair county, was destroyed by fire. It is supposed to have been the work of incendiaries. Loss about $3,500, upon which there is no insurance.

—The Hollidaysburg Standard "hits the nail square on the head" when it says that "the Johnstown Voice is very much in favor of Sam Henry's re-election to the Legislature. Notwithstanding which, Cambria Democrats with whom we have conversed declare that they don't propose to make fools of themselves a second time."

—Sheriff Bonacker brought three prisoners to jail Wednesday night. Two of them are charged with attempted rape, and the other with larceny, and all three hail from Johnstown. A man from Alleghany township was immured in the same edifice Tuesday, charged with stoning a house in the East Ward of this borough.

—The law firms of Shoemaker & Berry and Sechler & Scanlan have been dissolved. Messrs. Shoemaker & Sechler have entered into partnership, with their office in Mr. Shoemaker's residence; Mr. Berry, who is away from home for the benefit of his health, will on his return take possession of the office lately occupied by Sechler & Scanlan; and Mr. Scanlan as heretofore hangs out his shingle in Carrolltown. See their several cards.

—Prof. Braddock is agent for the sale of the publications of Henry S. Goodspeed & Co., 37 Park Row, New York, and during the ensuing month will call on our citizens to solicit buyers. His catalogue comprises all the standard and late works, Bibles and prayer books, etc., and engravings and photograph albums come within his scope. We commend the Professor to our readers as a man who can be "tied" to.

—At Portage, this county, last Monday, Samuel Barnes attempted to jump on a passing freight train, but missed his footing and fell on the track. The car-wheels passed over one of his legs, and so dreadfully mangled it that amputation became necessary. The unfortunate man survived the operation only a couple of hours. He was about 20 years old, and a resident of Bedford county. His remains were interred at Wilmore on Wednesday.

—William Christy, aged 15 years, a son of Josiah M. Christy, of Gallitzin, came to his death at Cresson last Thursday evening by the cars running over him. He had gone to Cresson from Gallitzin that evening, and was endeavoring to get aboard a freight train to return home, when he missed his footing and fell on the track. The car-wheels ran over his legs and a part of his body, and so severely injured him that he died shortly afterward.

—Charley Albright, Radical nominee for Congressman-at-large, threatens to come to Ebensburg some time during the campaign and make a political speech. Charley used to live here, and his memory is kept fragrant amongst us by remembrance of his connection with Council City, Kansas, in 1854. A great many of his old neighbors would like to hear his dulcet tones again but would hear them on the subject of "paper towns" in preference to politics.

—Randall Morton, who taught school in Ebensburg for two or three years prior to 1840, was in town on a brief visit Tuesday. He was warmly welcomed by many of his old pupils yet living here, all of them now middle-aged men, and some of them parents of children grown to man's estate. Mr. Morton is a nephew of Hon. Marcus Morton, of Massachusetts, who ran for Governor of that State about twenty-five times, and was elected once by one majority. He is now living in the neighborhood of Pittsburg.

—Ebensburg's new brass band has been fully organized. It is composed of the following named members: R. Litzinger, A. Y. Jones, John O. Evans, E. V. Barker, J. L. Stough, G. W. Jones, George Robinson, Jerry Fagan, D. H. Kinkead, and Erasmus Smith. The horns, which cost $350, arrived last week, and on Monday evening of this week the band took its first lesson. Prof. Braddock, of Johnstown, is tutor. The Professor is leader of Braddock's Johnstown Band, and under his efficient tutorship we expect the boys to make rapid progress in the acquirement of the science of music.

—The Ebensburg Fish Association isn't a bad institution, after all. Catfish were first introduced into the Conemaugh here three years ago, and now that species of fish are not only abundant in this immediate neighborhood, but have been caught nearly so low down as Wilmore. Three live grass pike were put into the same run, at the same point, two years ago, at a cost of $8.33⅓ each, and already the small fry are said to be abundant. Not satisfied with what it has already done, the Association proposes introducing bass and sunfish, and an expedition to catch and convey the same hither will go hence inside a week from date.

—Kleckner's & Co.'s circus, menagerie and museum, which exhibited here last Monday, was as good as—yes, we will say better than—the general run of such institutions. And yet a number of individuals from the rural districts strenuously insist that the way three-card monte was played in the side-shows detracted somewhat from the full enjoyment of the occasion. One man from Blacklick, well known to many of our readers, was mulct in the sum of $30, another lost $10, and several others from various localities contributed in smaller sums toward paying the expenses of the peripatetic gamblers. We have no consolation to offer the victims other than that contained in the axiom, "A fool and his money are soon parted."

SERIOUS SHOOTING AFFRAY AT ST. AUGUSTINE.—From a young man who was present and witnessed the occurrence, we learn the following particulars of a shooting affray which took place at St. Augustine on Monday last, and which it is now feared will result in the death of the victim: About three o'clock in the afternoon of the day indicated, Bernard J. McFeely entered the bar-room of Barnacle's hotel in an intoxicated condition, and with that braggadocio peculiar to drunken men, threatened to rid the room of its inmates, some half dozen persons. The proprietor of the hotel remonstrated with McFeely, but without effect until some one proposed to treat, which was done, and for a brief time order was restored. It was only for a brief time, however, for McFeely soon renewed his threats, and the result was that Barnacle took hold of him and ejected him from the house. McFeely lost no time in returning, however, when Barnacle again ejected him, after which he passed behind the bar, and, taking a gun from under the counter, pointed it at McFeely and told him that he would shoot him if he came back.—Not heeding the threat, McFeely once more entered the room, when Barnacle pulled the trigger and the ball sped on its course, striking him in the thigh, fracturing the bone and lodging under the skin in the back part of his leg. The wounded man sank to the floor and for a time all was commotion. Barnacle himself sent for a physician, and ere long Dr. Sloan appeared on the scene, and after a careful examination determined that the unfortunate man's life could only be saved, if saved at all, by the amputation of the leg close to his body. This operation was accomplished forthwith, but our informant says that McFeely's condition gives but little promise of a favorable result. So far as we know, Barnacle has not been arrested, nor do we know what action, if any, the authorities propose to take in the matter.

A FORMER CAMBRIAN KILLED.—On Thursday, 1st instant, the several Sabbath schools of Auburn and portions of Osage and Wabaunsee counties, Kansas, indulged in a union picnic. From a copy before us of the Topeka, Kansas, Commonwealth, we gather that up to 1 P. M. of the day, everything went merry as a marriage bell with the vast multitude asembled, and the celebration was pronounced the happiest of the season. At that hour, the young men planned for more muscular sports than the swing or the promenade. To that end, a rope was extended between two trees at a hight of seven or eight feet from the ground, and a series of trapeze performances was attempted. Among the athletes was John H. Harr, who, while attempting a difficult feat, missed his hold and fell. He struck on his forehead, and with such great force that his neck was broken, death ensuing instantly. The deceased was the second son of M. S. Harr, formerly of Ebensburg, but for a number of years past a resident of Auburn. He was about 23 years old, and an estimable young man. Those who knew him here in other years, and particularly his playmates, will be sorry to hear of this tragic death of young "Nonly."

A GOOD WORD.—Though we uniformly differ in politics with our townsman, Hon. A. A. Barker, and sometimes venture to express ourself to that effect in these columns, yet we know him to be an energetic, honest, and useful citizen, and when a good word is said of him as a man, we have no hesitation in giving it currency to the full extent of our circulation. We clip the annexed extract from a communication from Menno township, Mifflin county, to a Lewistown paper:

> Mr. Barker, candidate for Congress, was here the other day, looking up his chances. * * * He told us a story about hurting his finger, which made a favorable impression on us.—Whilst working in his saw-mill some years ago, in carrying a slab he stumbled and fell, and threw his hand against the circular saw, which was in motion. His finger went off in a flash. He went to the house, (it was night,) got it tied up, and returned to the mill. Next morning he was the first one on the mill, and never lost a day. One of his hired men met with a similar accident, but not near so severe, and lay up six weeks. He concluded by saying that not one man in a thousand could have done as he did. What a noble man! He should have the nomination! He told us he was rich, owned a great number of saw-mills, and shipped great quantities of stuff to the West Indies.

Local Correspondence.

CARROLTOWN, Aug. 14, 1872.

Dear Freeman—Since my last, accidents and incidents have been, like angels' visits, few and far between in this latitude, and yet we hear no one complaining of a lack of variety on that account.

In the meantime the brick-work of the tower of St. Benedict's has been finished by the contracter, Mr. Matt. Addlesberger, to the satisfaction of all interested and to the credit of the gentleman named. It is, indeed, a good job and vindicates the confidence we ever had in Mr. Addlesberger as a first class mechanic and a reliable contractor. The spire builder is now putting the timber in place, and ere many days Carrolltown can boast of one of the prettiest towers and spires in Western Pennsylvania. When finished I shall have more to say about it.

Notwithstanding the frequent and drenching rains during harvest, the majority of our farmers have secured their crops in good condition.

In a portion of your edition last week, as you assured your readers, you noticed the running off of the team and consequent damage to the fine hack of our mail line. It is but fair to say that no blame attaches to any one in connection with the accident. The lead horse succeeded in working the bridle from his head just as the hack was nearing the convent, and this enabled him to see the flapping of one of the curtains of the hack, which, in connection with the fact that the men at work on the new tower made some noise which attracted, or rather distracted, the horse, caused him to frighten and start to run. Of course the driver was powerless to hold him, but manfully clung to the line attached to the other horse until it broke.—A lady with an infant on her lap was thrown from the hack, as was also the child. The latter escaped unhurt, but the lady had her corlal-bone fractured. She is improving rapidly. The hack has been reconstructed and made more convenient than ever. E.

SUMMERHILL TWP., Aug. 13, 1872.

Dear Freeman—George Hull and Joseph Woleslagle fell from a scaffolding at P. M. Woleslagle's mill, in Wilmore, on last Friday, in consequence of which both were severely injured, the latter having his left arm broken at the wrist. The cause of the accident was the giving way of the scaffolding, which they had erected for the purpose of repairing the building. The distance they fell was twenty feet, and it was providential that they escaped as safely as they did.

We attended the funeral of Father Brown of Johnstown, on Saturday last. A special train conveyed the remains to Cresson, whence they were taken to the Catholic cemetery at the Summit and interred by the side of Father McCullough an old schoolmate and friend of deceased. The funeral was a very large one, indeed one of the largest I ever witnessed. On the return seven passengers cars were found inadequate to accomodate the multitude and two freight cars were attached, and then the platforms were crowded to their utmost capacity.—Bishop Domenec and several clergy attended the funeral. The writer hereof was a warm personal friend of Father Brown from the time we first met until the grave closed over the form of one of the most eloquent, talented, gentlemanly, and warm hearted priests we have ever met. May his soul rest in eternal peace!

A young man by the name of Barnes, a brother of Mr Jeremiah Barnes, of Portage Station, had one of his legs so terribly mangled yesterday evening by slipping, under the wheels of a car on which he attempted to jump while the train was in motion, that the limb had to be amputated. We expect to have to report like occurrences at this point ere long, if some eight or ten boys do not quit jumping on and off trains when at full speed. The only wonder is that there are not more accidents resulting from such willful carelessness. SOLTERO.

IN MEMORIAM.—A MONUMENT OVER THE GRAVE OF FATHER BROWN.—Yesterday at 3 o'clock, says the Johnstown Daily Voice of Monday last, a large meeting of the congregation of St. John's (Catholic) church, convened in Fritz's Hall for the purpose of perfecting and concentrating a feeling largely expressed that they should erect a suitable memorial over the grave of their dead pastor, Father Brown.

The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and Daniel McLaughlin was chosen President and Capt. P. O'Connell Vice President. H. D. Woodruff and C. W. Easly were elected Secretaries.

The purpose of the meeting was announced in an appropriate manner by D. McLaughlin, Esq., in a few remarks.

A motion was made that a committee of three in each district be appointed for the purpose of soliciting contributions in aid of the proposed memorial. Carried.

The Chair announced that the committee would be appointed upon the suggestions of the gentlemen present from the several districts. The following committee was named:

Cambria Borough—N. McAneny, M. Sweeney and John Quigley.

Millville—P. Minahan, Jas. Hogan and Pat'k Rodgers.

Prospect—Hugh McMonigle, J. McFall and P. Boyle.

Taylor Township—Martin McDonald, S. McGrath and Thomas McGovern.

Yoder Township—J. Burns, M. Houghey and J. McCann.

Johnstown—Hugh Bradley, M. P. Meagher and J. J. Murphy.

Conemaugh Borough—Thos. Matthews, Mich'l Burns and Michael Quinn.

East Conemaugh—Michael McCabe, Thomas Egan and John T. Cooney.

Woodvale—George Keogh, John B. Clark and Patrick Fardy.

Franklin Borough—Wm. Adams, John Furlong and Dennis Murphy.

On motion, Judge Easly was unanimously elected Treasurer of the Memorial Fund.

On motion, a Building Committee was appointed, as follows:

Cambria borough—John Ryan; Millville borough—Pat'k Rodgers; Prospect borough—Robert Dimond; Johnstown—Daniel McLaughlin; Conemaugh borough—Judge Easly.

Representatives from E. Conemaugh, Franklin and Yoder will be selected at a future meeting.

The Treasurer was instructed to provide a collection book for each member of committee.

The collecting committee was instructed to make returns to the Treasurer of amounts collected, on Sunday, Sept. 8th, 1872.

A motion was made that any contract in regard to the style or cost of the proposed monument be submitted to a meeting of the congregation.

On motion, adjourned.

It is earnestly hoped that this movement will receive the hearty support of all. Father Brown belonged to us all—let us remember him as he should be remembered.

Cambria borough offers four hundred dollars towards the amount. What is worth doing at all is worth doing well, and it is hoped that the note struck by Cambria City will receive equal responses all over the district.

REV. PETER BROWN, DECEASED.—On last Thursday night, Rev. Peter Brown, the priest of St. John's (Catholic) church, Johnstown, was gathered to his fathers. The deceased was one of the ablest and most eloquent divines in the State; and, more than that, he was the worthy recipient of unbounded respect and esteem from al. who knew him. By his talents and learning, as well by his beautiful traits of private character, he had endeared himself to one and all, and his death has cast a gloom over the community which time only can eradicate. At 7½ o'clock Saturday morning, solemn High Mass was celebrated in the church, with Bishop Domenec as celebrant, assisted by Fathers Farren, Christy, and Gallagher. After mass, the Bishop delivered an eloquent and impressive address on the life and character of the deceased, dwelling particularly on his useful life and happy death. The ceremonies were concluded at 9¼ o'clock, when the funeral procession, to the number of at least one thousand, proceeded to the railroad station and took a special train to Cresson.—Thence, the body was conveyed to Summit, where all that was mortal of Rev. Peter Brown was given back to the earth whence it came. The deceased was born in Donegal, Ireland, and received his education at Maynooth College. He came to this country in 1843. His first field of labor was at Pittsburg; then at Erie; then at Buffalo; then at Providence, R. I; then at Wilmore; and lastly at Johnstown. May he rest in peace!

MR. SIMON SULTZBACH will open a tobacco and cigar store in the room one door west of Foster's hotel next Monday. He will get a large share of patronage.

GO AND SEE FOR YOURSELF! -Andy Foster, of the well known firm of Geis & Foster, was in New York and Philadelphia recently, and as his experience in the purchase of dry goods of the newest patterns, latest styles and best quality is well known we expect to see a rush of customers to that establishment when this fact becomes generally known. Geis & Foster have the largest and best selected stock of dry goods in this city, but the firm desire to call particular attention to the department allotted to CARPETS!

One portion of their large store is devoted to the sale of carpets, and as they buy an immense stock at a time they are necessarily enabled to buy and sell cheaper than any other store in town. Visit Geis & Foster's mammoth store on Clinton street, Johnstown, and examine their goods and prices and we are sure you will patronize the firm.

HICKEY'S FURNITURE WAREROOMS.—John Hickey, Undertaker, on Julian street, Fourth Ward, Altoona, is prepared to supply Metalic Burial Cases of all sizes and patterns, and on reasonable terms.

Mr. Hickey keeps constantly on hand a large stock of new and fashionable furniture, and those who require anything in his line should give him a call. Every article sent from his rooms will be warranted as represented.

Hair and Straw Mattrasses manufactured to order at less than city prices.

Cane seat chairs re-caned and fitted up as good as new.

All orders from a distance promptly attended to. [jul.13.-tf.]

MADE TO LAST.—An exchange paper tells about a suit of clothes found at the foot of a tree, from which the occupant appeared to have been eliminated by a flash of lightning. A suit of clothes that could stand such a pressure as that must surely have been bought from S. J. Hess & Bro., 241 Main street, Johnstown, for it is well known that for durability of make and material, as well as for beauty of style and cheapness of price, the clothing of this firm is unapproached and unapproachable.

"THE picnic's far behind us, Kate; 'twill take them long to find us, Kate;—there's a world of bliss in a harmless kiss, and no one near to mind us, Kate." She said she'd rather not engage in such delightful pastime, as it might muss the new Dolly Varden dress she had just purchased from I. T. Coppock, who, by the way, has lately become sole proprietor of the popular and elegant dress goods emporium heretofore owned by Aldendifer & Coppock, at No. 212 Main st., Opera House, Johnstown.

BAD LUCK.—A youth in Johnstown had a $20 gold piece. A magpie stole the gold piece; a cat caught and ate the magpie; a dog killed the cat, and a butcher who don't live there served up the dog in the shape of bologna sausage. The youth said he wouldn't care so much about it, only he was saving that gold piece to buy a suit of ready-made clothing at Mayer's renowned clothing store, Johnstown, where he knew he could get wearing apparel very cheap, very stylish and very durable.

LET those who would their lives prolong, and from their presence drive all earthly ills, just bear in mind as worldly ways they throng that there is such a man as E. J. Mills, who keeps a store on the street called High, and sells to all who have ready cash to pay for the best of flour and feed, chopped corn and rye, and groceries, too, fresh and cheap—that's what we say. On Mills then call and at fair prices buy of what he keeps a full supply.

MUTUAL
Fire Insurance.

The Mutual Plan guarantees to the mutually insured the greatest security for the least possible cost. The premium notes are the capital. On this no dividends are paid to the stockholders, but it is simply assessed to pay deficiencies arising after the payment of losses and expenses—which in the COLUMBIA INSURANCE COMPANY, during the total 12⅜ years of its existence, have averaged but 6⅜ per centum upon the premium note, being lower than the rates paid in the best solvent stock companies during the same period of time. In insuring at stock rates, the insured must pronounce to himself that he pays every year enough—1st. To form an accumulated fund for emergencies; 2d. To pay large dividends to the capital invested in the Company; 3d. Runs the risk of a "Chicago fire" coming and wiping his Company out of existence. In a Mutual Company he keeps his own reserve in hand until needed, and pays no dividend to capitalists. The mutually insured, being themselves the capitalists, look after the business, its character and its agents in all places, thus protecting each other.

DR. CARPENTER,
136 MULBERRY STREET,
NEWARK, N. J.,
Is now treating successfully
Consumption, Bronchitis,
and all diseases of Throat and Lungs, with his COMPOUND MEDICATED INHALATIONS, CONCENTRATED FOOD, AND COUGH SYRUP.

During the past ten years Dr. Carpenter has treated and cured thousands of cases of above named diseases, and has now in his possession certificates of cures from all parts of the country. The Inhalation is breathed directly into the lungs, soothing and healing over all inflamed surfaces, entering into the blood, it imparts vitality as it permeates to every part of the system. The sensation is not unpleasant, and the first inhalation often gives very decided relief, particularly when there is much difficulty of breathing. Under the influence of my remedies, the cough soon grows easier, the night sweats cease, the hectic flush vanishes, and with improving digestion the patient rapidly gains strength, and health is again within his grasp. The Concentrated Food rapidly builds up the most debilitated patient, presenting to the stomach food all ready to be assimilated and made into good, rich, healthy blood. The Cough Syrup is to be taken at night to alleviate the cough and enable the patient to obtain sleep. Full directions accompany each box of my remedies which consists of

One Inhaler; One Bottle of Alterative Inhalant; One Bottle of Soothing Febrifuge Inhalant; One Bottle Anti-Hæmorrhagic Inhalant; One Bottle Concentrated Food; One Bottle Cough Syrup.

Price of Box containing medicines to last one month, $10; two months, $18; three months, $25. Sent to any address C. O. D. Pamphlets containing large list of patients cured sent free.—Letters of inquiry must contain one dollar to insure answer. Address,

M. L. OATMAN'S

TRIUMPH OF THE ÆTNA.

Mowing Match.

From the Ravenna (Ohio) Democrat, July, 1867.

A very spirited and interesting Mowing Match was held on the farm of C. H. Bostwick, Esq., near Campbellsport, in this county, on the 15th inst. There was a large attendance of spectators, and more than ordinary interest manifested in the friendly competition. An agreement had been entered into, between the parties representing the different machines, that only Common Machines (such as are ordinarily offered for sale, and not made for special occasions) should be allowed to enter the contest, each machine should mow an equal amount of grass, and one team and driver should be used for all, in order that the trial might be a fair one, and the merits of the machines alone lay claim to public favor. The "ÆTNA" Mower, made by the ÆTNA Manufacturing Co., of Salem, Ohio, for which Peter H. Bean appeared as agent, proved to have the lightest draught, and this, with its simplicity of construction and beauty of design, combined with its powerful cutting qualities, made it the favorite of the day.

Captain A. T. King, of Charlestown, was chosen as a committee to note the draught of each machine, as indicated by a dynamometer, which was found to be as follows:

"ÆTNA,"	Draught,	150 lbs.
"BUCKEYE,"	"	175 "
"EXCELSIOR,"	"	175 "
"WORLD,"	"	175 "
"THAYER'S,"	"	165 "
"WOOD,"	"	200 "

A Sad Story.

A recent letter from Boston contains the following:

"A funeral procession passed by yesterday. A young man told me a story that I think has a peculiar sadness about it. At Saratoga, last season, at one of the largest balls, was a young lady with the most charming and fascinating manners and graces. Her toilet was equally pleasing. She was the belle of the ball—an honor accorded her without dissent. Her attendant during the evening was a young man dressed almost gaudily, who bore himself with all the distasteful self-conceit of a brainless millionaire. He was the son of a Boston leather dealer. He met the lady at Saratoga for the first time last season, and she, by direction of her parents, who were also wealthy, and who insisted on the arrangement, became his affianced. Previous to this, she had met a young gentleman, also from Boston, of the utmost respectability, thorough honor and integrity, but without fortune. To him she had been something more than a friend; in fact, almost betrothed. He was young, had risen by his own efforts, and was, it is said, possessed of sterling and promising abilities, which in time must have won wealth and perhaps distinction. On the return of the lady from Saratoga last season her engagement prevented any further intercourse with her first suitor, and he was dismissed. His grief was pitiful. He strove not to reverse it by word or action, but the very efforts he so laboriously made exposed the poignancy of his wounds. The lady wed the brainless fop and lived with her husband in the suburbs of the city at a large and costly residence for one month after their marriage. By that time the abuse of the husband compelled an immediate separation. He was incontinently shipped to Europe, where he still remains, and the fair young wife was left to gradually decline in health and die, meanwhile reproaching her parents for having driven her to an alliance which had wrought such early ruin and had blasted such bright hopes and expectations. As the funeral passed up a public street the first lover, while watching with blanched cheek and moistened eyes the sad cortege, fell to the ground while suffering an attack of hemorrhage of the lungs. He was carried into a physician's office near by, where he died before the body of one he so tenderly and truly loved was laid in its last resting place."

A Black Story.—We never saw a page or paragraph with more blacking in it than this tale of the two boot blacks. As an elocutionary exercise you will find it equal to "Theophilus Thistle, the thistle sifter."

During a slight lull in business the other day two little boot-blacks, one white and one black, were standing on a corner doing nothing, when the white boot-black agreed to black the black boot-black's boots.

The black boot-black was of course willing to have his boots blacked by his fellow boot-black, and the boot-black who had agreed to black the black boot-black's boots went to work.

When the boot-black had blacked one of the black boot-black's boots till it shone in a manner that would make any boot-black proud, this boot-black who had agreed to black the black boot-black's boots, refused to black the other boot of the black boot-black, until the black boot-black who had consented to have the white boot-black black his boots, should add five cents to the amount the white boot-black had made blacking other men's boots.

This the black boot-black, whose one boot had been blacked, refused to do, saying that it was good enough for a black boot-black to have one boot blacked, and he didn't care whether the boot that the boot-black hadn't blacked was blacked or not.

This made the boot-black who had blacked the black boot-black's boot as angry as a boot-black often gets, and he vented his wrath by spitting upon the blacked boot of the black boot-black.

This roused the latent passions of the black boot-black, and he proceeded to boot the white boot-black with the boot which the white boot-black had blacked. A fight then followed. The fraternity of boot-blacks then convened, and denounced the action of the white and black boot-black as one of the blackest in the pages of boot-black history.

An Old Tree.—At Montravail, in France, a property has recently been sold in the courtyard of which stands the famous "Montravial oak," which naturalists assert to be more than two thousand years old. This noble tree is thus capable of measuring existence with the forest giants of Calaveras county, California. This oak, which is entirely hollow, has had its interior provided with stone benches, upon which twelve persons can comfortably sit around a table, and an entrance door and two windows have been cut out of its sides. In order to ascertain its age, M. d'Orbigny cut out a piece of its entire thickness and boiled it in oil, which is an infallible mode of bringing to light the separate layers produced by each year. By this method, in counting from the centre to the circumference, he was easily able to prove that the number of layers amounted to two thousand and some hundreds. This tree is of course a great natural curiosity, and every year numbers of persons visit that neighborhood to view so venerable a relic of the past, which was living and yielding shelter, as now, to the birds of the air, whole centuries before the birth of Christ.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED TO PRODUCE ITS EQUAL!

TAYLOR & CO., of Altoona, are fast gaining an enviable reputation as philanthropists by introducing among the ladies the AMERICAN CHAMPION WASHER! the only Washing Machine in the market that will do its work perfectly on all kinds of clothing without the aid of a rubbing board.

It washes without rubbing, rolling or pressing the clothes in any way, and hence without any wearing of the fabric.

It will wash any thing, from the finest lace to the heaviest bed-quilt.

It will do the same work in a shorter time and with less labor than any other Machine made.

Any person desiring a Washing Machine can have a Champion Washer taken to their residence and tested, when, if not satisfactory, it will be taken away without cost to them.

CONVINCING TESTIMONY.

Messrs. Taylor & Co.—Gents: Your American Champion Washer has been in use at my hotel long enough to convince us that it is all it claims to be. It saves two-thirds of the labor and time and does the work as well as it can be done by hand. We would not be without it for double its cost. HENRY FOSTER. Ebensburg, March 20, '72. Cambria House.

HEALTH! BEAUTY!!

STRONG AND PURE RICH BLOOD—INCREASE OF FLESH AND WEIGHT—CLEAR SKIN AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION SECURED TO ALL.

DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES; SO QUICK, SO RAPID ARE THE CHANGES THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT

Every Day an Increase in Flesh and Weight is Seen and Felt. THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure.

Not only does the Sarsaparillian Resolvent excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for Kidney & Bladder Complaints, Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brick-dust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white bone-dust deposits, and where there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins. Price, $1.00.

WORMS.—The only known and sure Remedy for Worms—Pin, Tape, etc.

Tumor of 12 Years' Growth Cured by Radway's Resolvent.

BEVERLY, MASS., July 18, 1869.

Dr. Radway:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the ovaries and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for it." I tried every thing that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and thought I would try it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter, and happier than I have for twelve years. The worst tumor was in the left side of the bowels, over the groin. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.

DR. RADWAY'S PERFECT PURGATIVE PILLS, perfectly tasteless, elegantly coated with sweet gum, purge, regulate, purify, cleanse, and strengthen. VINEGAR BITTERS

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, and in Bilious Diseases.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.
